

AUSTRALIAN INTERNATIONAL
DOCUMENTARY CONFERENCE
23 – 26 FEBRUARY 2010 – HILTON HOTEL,
ADELAIDE AUSTRALIA

Internationally renowned, the Australian International Documentary Conference (AIDC) attracts delegates and speakers from around Australia and overseas. The conference offers the full range of participants in the factual film and broadcasting industry the opportunity to meet, network and be exposed to industry best practice from Australia and overseas. In addition, master classes and forums raise and explore current challenges and showcase work.

Established in 1987, AIDC is a leading industry organisation for documentary and factual programming. AIDC's purpose is to foster industry development by providing a forum for ideas, networking and deal-making. AIDC organises an annual conference and marketplace. The focus is on future directions, content, craft, technology, co-production partnerships and sales. AIDC targets Australian and international broadcast executives, distributors, investors, producers and filmmakers.

In 2010 international co-production will take centre stage at AIDC. More details at www.aidc.com.au

PREFERENTIAL PARTICIPATION PACKAGE

Delegation from China to Australian International Documentary Conference 2010

Representatives from Chinese documentary and factual programming organisations are invited to participate in AIDC 2010 held from 23 to 26 February 2010 in Adelaide, Australia.

AIDC will support and recommend the Chinese delegation to Australian and international producers, directors, broadcast executives and other investors.

1. Special presentation of the Chinese Delegation at AIDC

During the conference, a dedicated networking and presentation event will be organised, designed to profile the Chinese Delegation to AIDC delegates. At this session, Chinese delegates can promote themselves or their projects.

2. Dedicated meeting space and free appointment making

One-on-one meetings can be arranged in a meeting room at the Conference venue. This is an opportunity for Chinese delegates to meet and discuss business with Australian and international producers, broadcast executives and investors.

3. Free entry to Trailer Park

Trailer Park is an online and DVD library of trailers of projects in progress. Trailers can be viewed online or at the Conference itself, and are listed in a catalogue which includes the filmmakers' contact details. Chinese delegates are invited to submit their projects to Trailer Park for free.

4. Profile on the AIDC website (www.aidc.com.au)

AIDC will promote members of the Chinese Delegation through DocExchange on the AIDC website. Profiles can include a personal profile of the delegate, a company profile, project information and interests. Chinese delegates will be premium members of DocExchange. DocExchange allows members to interact with other members of the documentary industry online.

5. Preferential Registration and Accommodation Package for the Chinese Delegation

Discount package price of $1,000 AUD includes:

- Full AIDC conference registration
- Four nights accommodation at the Conference venue (Hilton Adelaide Hotel)
- Complimentary entry to opening and closing night party
- Complimentary airport pick-up
